

How Did You Paint That? Learn to Paint Here We Go

Wendy Eriksson is a multi-award winning Australian contemporary artist. Her style is bright, light and free, often with a great sense of fun! She is an experimental, intuitive artist, who is constantly exploring and testing the way she paints and how she approaches her subjects. She uses plenty of texture and bold, bright colours in her pieces. Following on from her highly popular How Did You Paint That? series of step-by-step art instruction books, she has now released a range of Studio Notes publications that provide an insight into what Wendy is up to in her studio on a daily basis. In this book, Wendy shares her knowledge and background insights during the development of the painting entitled Here We Go. With many progress and close up images to show the steps she has taken along the way, Wendy will talk you through how easy it is to create your very own collage and acrylic seascape scene. This book is based on a single simple art project that can be completed quickly and easily. It lists the materials you need and guides you through the processes to complete your project. Suitable for complete beginners to advanced artists.
