Kieran OBrien needs to escape a broken relationship and he invites himself to spend a summer with his brother in Corbins Bend. But Kieran is a totally unsuspecting vanilla with no idea of the ethos of the community he is about to enter. The pair strike up an unlikely friendship of vanilla and spice, with one stipulation - it is only a summer fling. Lifes Unexpected Gifts by Livia Grant Violence has been part of Hallie Boudreauxs life for too long. Deciding all men are barbaric abusers, shes once again on the run away from danger. Desperate to feel safe, if even for a few days, Hallie remembers the only time she had felt truly happy in the last seven years were the summers spent at her Aunt Jenna and Uncle Calberts. Taking a chance her aunt might take her in, Hallie points her dilapidated car towards Corbins Bend, praying she makes it there before her clunker takes its last gasp. Troy Jackson cant wait to surprise his sister on her 30th birthday. Hes recently moved back to Colorado to be closer to his only relative, Traci, a psychologist living in Corbins Bend. The surprise is on Troy when his normally conscientious sister runs amok on her big birthday proving that even intelligent, independent women still need the stern guidance of the men in their lives. Having grown up with loving parents who practiced the domestic discipline way of life, both Traci and Troy subscribe to the founding principles of the Corbins Bend community wholeheartedly. Hallies family is thrilled to have her in Corbins Bend, but can Hallie come to terms with living in a community based on its endorsement of spanking, a practice Hallie sees as abuse. Can Tracis counseling help her overcome her fear in order to accept her new life in Corbins Bend, or is it Tracis brother who ultimately has the power to show Hallie that not all men are abusers? A Perfect Partnership by Rayanna
