

Searching for Wolves (Paranormal Werewolf Erotic Romance, Alpha Shifter)

Im a werewolf, Lauren. And with you here, in the light of the full moon, I cant contain myself much longer. Go, be safe. Lauren has been obsessed with wolves for as long as she can remember: admiring their sleek ferocity and unshakable loyalty and dreaming of one day seeing or hearing them in the wild. Finally setting off on her trip of a lifetime, she has high hopes when she meets the ruggedly sexy woodsman living deep in the forest and not just for the tips or direction he could provide. But Carl is in no position to welcome guests - the full moon is rising and the unexpected appearance of a woman in his life again could drown all his hard won self-control in a haze of bestial lust and need. His abrasive insistence she leave quickly dashes Laurens hopes, but as the night falls and the moon reaches its zenith neither of them may be able to resist the pull of the other and perhaps Laurens dreams will be fulfilled in a way she could never have anticipated. Warning: This 10k word erotic romance contains graphic language and explosive sexual activity between an eager woman with a love of wolves and a sexy werewolf struggling with his nature. Intended for mature audiences 18+ only. ----- Excerpt ----- Her heart sped up as she saw him and the immediate jolt of attraction ran through her at his powerful form and rugged appearance, long brown hair flowing carelessly just past shoulder length and framing his handsome face. Well, this is even better than I was hoping I can certainly picture spending the night with him! Shaking her head slightly, Lauren banished those thoughts and stepped up to the stranger, the pleasant surprise of his appearance mingling with her hopes to have her practically bubbling over with enthusiasm and only his full arms preventing her from thrusting her hand out in greeting. Hi there! Do you live here? Its great to find someone so far out in frowned a little at his abrasive interruption but figured he was probably startled to find someone in his obviously private space. Shifting a little she tried to dial back her somewhat overpowering excitement. Sorry, I was just so excited to find someone living here who could help. Im Lauren, and Im spending a week hiking these woods. His face darkened and Lauren fought the sudden urge to take a step back. Have I completely misjudged this? You shouldn't be here. These forests are dangerous, no place for a woman alone. Shaking her head, Lauren laughed off his concerns. Don't worry, I know how to take care of myself, and I've spent plenty of time learning how to survive in places like this. The only reaction those assurances got were a sharp shake of his head and the beginnings of a scowl as he shifted and grunted with the load he was carrying, unable to gesture to emphasise himself quite how he wanted to. No! There are dangerous creatures here, wild animals. You need to leave. This time Lauren cut him off, starting to get irritated at the direction this conversation was taking. Im not helpless, damn it! What sort of wild animals? I haven't heard of anything particularly bad.
What are you doing here? Lauren
